Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1500 on Saturday 25 Sep 2021

UK Outlook for Sunday 10 Oct 2021 to Sunday 24 Oct 2021:
Confidence is typically low during this period, but the most likely outcome is for high pressure to dominate in the south, leading to drier and more settled conditions over these areas. In the north, lower pressure is likely to prevail, with these areas seeing the wettest weather. However, there is a chance of settled conditions becoming more prevalent across most of the UK for a time. Temperatures are more likely to be around or slightly above average.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.